Work Experience

Feb – Aug 2016	Research Assistant in the grant project: “Transition from Gender Inequitable Society: A Comparative Study on Division of Gender Roles and Fertility in Japan, Germany and the Netherlands”, Grants-in-Aid for Scientific Research, headed by Dr. Setsuya Fukuda, sponsored by Japan Society for the Promotion of Science.
April 2014 – March 2016	Teaching Assistant, Meiji University. I assisted a basic statistics class for undergraduate students as a teaching assistant. The class taught whole statistics theories from descriptive statistics to inferential statistics analysis such as regression models. I was also a teaching assistant of statistical computing class, which gives lectures on how to analyse survey data using SPSS.
Sep 2013 – Oct 2014	Research Assistant at National Institute of Population and Social Security Research. I worked on error check of the data from surveys about elderly care policies taken from Japanese local municipalities and compiled and made tables in need of those city offices.
